HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—Pity the poor assistant director of a film company, the unit manager and the property man when 40 child extras are used in a picture, for that's when they doubt their sanity, quarrel with their wives and talk to themselves.

"I'd much rather handle six temperamental stars at once than look after 40 kids," said Jimmy Anderson.

Anderson is an assistant director to Leo McCarey, who is directing "Love Affair," with Irene Dunne, Charles Boyer and those 40 children, ranging in age from 4 to 14.

To begin with, the movie-makers are obliged to look after the education of the children. For every 10 children, one teacher must be employed. And likewise there must be a guardian on the set for each child. In this case, it meant four teachers and 40 guardians.

For educational purposes, there must also be benches and tables for the impromptu classrooms. That's where the property man begins to worry. It is his job not only to provide the educational paraphernalia but also to keep track of it. And it is surprising what 40 children can do.

Then, if the company leaves the studio on a location trip, the picnic really begins.

In the case of the "Love Affair" company, it really was a picnic—for the children. The company went some 20 miles to Los Angeles harbor. Director McCarey arrived, his stars arrived, the property trucks and equipment arrived, but the two buses containing the 40 youngsters, their mothers and teachers did not get there.

McCarey finally asked the aid of police, who discovered the buses had been halted behind a fire line thrown around a warehouse blaze.

COMES TO LIFE . . . "Blondie," well-known comic strip character lives on the screen with her funny family in a picture named after her. The comedy opens Sunday at the Lomita theatre.

Comedy Rules Theatre Bill

A cast of high and low comedy experts, combined with some of the loveliest red and blonde beauty on the screen, has latched a fresh and original idea in "Thanks for Everything," and has whaled it away into one of the most entertaining pictures 20th Century-Fox has ever turned out.

The Torrance theatre is currently enjoying the presence of this scandalously funny picture and the bubbling antics of its cast of glamour, wit and wit that includes Adolphe Menjou, Jack Oakie, Jack Haley, Arleen Whelan, Tony Martin, Binnie Barnes, George Barbier and Warren Himes.

"Thanks for Everything" expounds the droll idea that there is such a thing as a Mister Average Man in this, our great country. Its plot through its plotless—same being a satirical Adolphe Menjou and a Dookish Jack Oakie—proceeds to locate this specimen man, and then to probe and explore to see what makes him tick.

When you realize that hapless Jack Haley plays the role of Henry Smith, Mr. Average Man, you see why the exploring process gets more hilarious as each layer is exposed. But when the probers reach Haley's heart and meddle with his Miss America, Haley collects himself and establishes a new high average in the behavior of an American mad about romance. Red-haired green-eyed Arleen Whelan represents this emotion in the life of Mister Average Man, who therefore proves himself a rare picker of feminine charm.

LATEST SPINE-CHILLER . . . among the ranks of film thrillers is "Son of Frankenstein," which starts Saturday at the Plaza Theatre in Hawthorne. In the above scene from this strange drama are Boris "Frankenstein" Karloff, Basil Rathbone and Bela "Dracula" Lugosi.

THAT AIN'T THE WAY I KIERED IT . . .

Peculiar yesterday (George Wash's birthday) was the sight on Sartori ave. Lined almost solid with Stars & Stripes on poles in the sidewalk was the north side of the street, while the south side, from the new Safeway clean down to the Torrance National Bank showed nary a flag. Maybe the South is rebelling again! . . . Neighbor Bill Thornburg has had a fire-puncture or blowout for over thirteen years, some repeat of a record . . . Shoe Repair Man Kennel Ruffell's young son and Gaston Arroy, prop of La Mode Furniture offers famed National "entian Blinds for 10 days only for the low figure of 35 cents a sq. ft., installed . . . Lefty Lipp, most amiable man in town and barber of considerable merit, remarked the other day, in view of last week's Herald yarn about "Charlie Jones, parents' 60th Wedding date, that his ma & pa, 85 and 92, respectively, last August drank a toast to their 68th anniversary a back in 1971. "85 minutes as a long time to keep breathing, much less married.

Theatre builder Samuel Levy tells a * * * yarn about a well-dressed young man named Smith who was talking to Sam and several other bigwigs in the lobby of the uncompleted theatre the other day. Close to Smith was a large barrel, full of water, which the plasterers used to swab off their plaster shovels. On the water had formed a film of plaster, paper - thin, which made the top appear solid. Smith, noticing a shoe lace untied, hoisted up his number 12, plunked it smack down in the water clear to his knee! . . . Entertaining Clara Lewis, who operates a very clean & neat bakery shop over on Carson, remarked yesterday that five dozen of a huselous looking pastry of the Washington motif, were going to the Torrance Memorial Hospital; that the hospital used lots of cake, fed patients very well . . .

For 23 years Mark Wright has lived in Torrance, worked for Columbia and National Supply, saw Torrance grow from a pup, even attended Torrance schools, years ago when they weren't any better than they are now. But this week Mark intends to break away from it all, go in business for himself, an itch that comes to all men. In the new Richfield Service station on Carson at Andreo Mark will hang his hat, drop change in the cash register, go to work. Buying out Neil Whitney, who opened the big station only a few months ago. Mark, who has had considerable retail experience as well, is sure he will make a go of it, hopes to make his station one of the best in town. Shop Talk, too, is sure he will, wishes him Good Luck & Bon Voyage. . . .

Jack Koch, of the Star Furniture Co., is going to make all infants born at Torrance Memorial Hospital whoop & holler when he sends them silver plated knife, fork & spoon, free, gratis, & without charge, as a gift from the Star. (A special set of eating tools has been provided for off-hands, kiddies.) Seems to Shop Talk, however, that as well as he can remember (it was so long ago) infants might find it rather difficult keeping well fed with a knife, fork & spoon. However, there'll come a day . . .

Jack & Lillian Barrington, confined to their home these past many weeks with a young son who has been ailing, are going to have a night out at the Hospital Ball . . . Lillian tells of a hired girl she had for some weeks who quit her job because as long as she worked her husband couldn't get on Relief! . . .

Draped with an American flag, a large crayon portrait of George Washington, executed by Grace Newbury in 1927 and presented to the school, was a reminder to Narbonne high school students in Lomita that yesterday was the birthday of The Father of His Country.

The portrait was a companion piece to a similarly large drawing of Abraham Lincoln which Miss Newbury gave the school when she graduated.

Recent Gales Blow Citrus Prices Higher

It's an ill wind that blows the citrus grower no good! Some 440,000 picking boxes of navel oranges were blown off the trees in Los Angeles county during last week's windstorm, according to an estimate made at the middle of the week by Harold J. Ryan, county agricultural commissioner.

But the result is higher prices, it appeared today, following wire reports from the East showing the prices had gained 14 cents per box early in the week, as compared with last week.

As for Valencia, which still are in the maturing stage, about 180,000 picking boxes were blown off the trees, Ryan's report stated. Valencias are not ready for market until May, and is the larger of the two crops.

Valencia acreage in the county totals 27,000 acres, as compared with only 13,500 for navels. Some fruit that has been damaged by the wind still is on the trees, inspectors reported after examination of groves early this week, and the extent of the loss may not be accurately known until 10 days or more.
